Marital Status and Living Arrangements: March 1992

INTRODUCTION

This report presents detailed information on the marital status and living arrangements of the noninstitutional population of the United States, based on the results of the March 1992 Current Population Survey. The text of this report compares current survey data with data collected from earlier surveys. In some instances, data from decennial censuses are used when survey data are not available.

The estimates for 1992 in this report are inflated to national population controls by age, race, sex, and Hispanic origin. The population controls are based on results of the 1980 census carried forward to 1992. The estimates in this report, therefore, may differ from estimates that would have been obtained using 1990 census results brought forward to the survey date. Population controls incorporating 1990 census results will be used for survey estimation beginning in 1993.

Highlights of the topics discussed in this report include:

- The number of currently married persons has grown 19 (± 0.7) percent since 1970 (from 95 ($\pm 685,000$) million in 1970 to 113 ($\pm 730,000$) million in 1992), but the proportion they represented of all adults declined from 72 (± 0.4) to 61 (± 0.4) percent.
- The estimated median age at first marriage for men and women in 1992 was 26.5 (± 0.1) and 24.4 (± 0.1) years, respectively, up 3 years for men and women since 1975.
- The number of Black/White married couples in 1992 was 246,000 ($\pm 55,000$), representing only 0.5 (± 0.1) percent of all married couples.
- Between 1970 and 1992, the proportion of children living with two parents declined from 85 (± 0.4) to 71 (± 0.6) percent, while the proportion living with one parent more than doubled from 12 (± 0.4) percent to 27 (± 0.6) percent.
- The number of grandchildren who lived in a home maintained by their grandparent(s) was 3.3 ($\pm 198,000$) million in 1992, or 5 (± 0.3) percent of all children under 18 years.
- One-third (± 1.6 percent) of women age 65 to 74 and more than one-half (± 2.0 percent) of women age 75 and over lived alone in 1992.
- Less than one-half (43 percent ± 1.4) of all Black adults age 18 and older were currently married in 1992, a considerable drop from 64 (± 1.6) percent in 1970.
- In 1992, 36 (± 2.0) percent of Black children lived with two parents, compared with 77 (± 0.6) percent of White children.
- Among elderly Blacks in 1992, similar proportions lived alone (36 percent ± 3.9) or with their spouse (37 percent ± 4.0), and 25 (± 3.5) percent lived with other relatives.
- The proportion of Hispanics who were currently married declined from 72 (± 2.5) to 60 (± 1.7) percent between 1970 and 1992, as the unmarried proportion increased from 28 (± 2.5) to 40 (± 1.7) percent.
- Sixty-five (± 2.3) percent of Hispanic children lived with two parents in 1992, down from 78 (± 2.6) percent in 1970.
- Fifty-one percent (± 0.2) of elderly Hispanics lived with their spouse in 1992, 19 (± 4.9) percent lived alone, and 27 (± 5.5) percent lived with other relatives.

(The values shown in parentheses represent the 90-percent confidence intervals. For a more detailed discussion of sampling error, see appendix B.)

MARITAL STATUS OF ADULTS 18 YEARS OLD AND OVER

During the past two decades, the married adult population has grown much more slowly than the unmarried adult population. Marital status, as shown in this report, reflects the person's status as of the survey date. For instance, the number divorced is a count of persons currently divorced and not remarried. It is not the count of all persons who had ever divorced in their lifetime, nor the number of persons who were granted a divorce in 1992.

The number of currently married persons has grown 19 percent since 1970 (from 95 million in 1970 to 113 million in 1992), but the proportion they represented of all adults declined from 72 to 61 percent (table A and figure 1). The number of unmarried adults nearly doubled since 1970 (from 38 million to 72 million), and the proportion they represented of all adults rose from 28 to 39 percent. The category "unmarried" includes currently never-married, widowed, and divorced adults. Two of the major factors contributing to this change are delayed marriage and increased divorce.

Never-married persons make up the largest share of unmarried adults (58 percent) and a sizable portion of the total adult population (23 percent). Between 1970 and 1992, the number of never-married adults nearly doubled, from 21 to 42 million. However, the largest proportional increase of any marital status category has been among divorced persons. The number of currently divorced persons has quadrupled from 4.3 million in 1970 to 16.3 million in 1992, representing 9 percent of all adults age 18 and over in 1992.

Whites, Blacks, and persons of Hispanic origin have shown similar patterns of decline in the proportion married and of increase in the proportion unmarried. In 1992, 64 percent of White persons age 18 and over were currently married, down from 73 percent in 1970. The unmarried White population increased from 27 to 37 percent. Less than one-half (43 percent) of all Black adults age 18 and older were currently married in 1992, a considerable drop from 64 percent in 1970, while the proportion unmarried grew from 36 to 57 percent. The proportion of Hispanics who were currently married declined from 72 to 60 percent between 1970 and 1992, as the unmarried proportion increased from 28 to 40 percent.

POSTPONING MARRIAGE

In 1992, the estimated median age at first marriage was 26.5 for men and 24.4 for women, significantly higher than in recent years (table B). Since the mid-1950's, when the median age at first marriage was at an all time low, adults have been waiting longer and longer to marry. In the twenty years spanning 1955 to 1975, the median age at first marriage increased about one year for both men and women (from 22.6 to 23.5 for men and from 20.2 to 21.1 for women). In the 17 years since 1975, the median age has risen 3 years for men and women (from 23.5 to 26.5 for men and from 21.1 to 24.4 for women).

The proportions of men and women in their twenties and thirties who have never married have grown substantially since 1970 (table C). Among women age 20 to 24, two-thirds had never married in 1992 compared to just over one-third in 1970. Among women in their late twenties and early thirties, the proportions never married tripled between 1970 and 1992 (from 11 to 33 percent for age 25 to 29 and from 6 to 19 percent for age 30 to 34). The proportion for women age 35 to 39 more than doubled, from 5 to 13 percent.

Young men have higher proportions never married than women, as men tend to marry at older ages. In 1992, 80 percent of men age 20 to 24 had never married and nearly 50 percent of men age 25 to 29 had never married (up from 55 and 19 percent, respectively).

Among men in their thirties, the proportion never married tripled during the 1970 to 1992 period for age 30 to 34 and more than doubled for age 35 to 39 (from 9 to 29 percent and from 7 to 18 percent, respectively in 1970).

Significant increases in the proportions never married have occurred for Whites, Blacks, and Hispanics. At least through age 34, White men and men of Hispanic origin tend to have higher proportions never married by age group than their female counterparts. Black men, however, tend to have proportions that are more similar to those of their female counterparts. For instance, among the age group 25 to 29 years, the proportions of never-married men and women, respectively, were 46 and 29 percent for Whites, 46 and 29 percent for Hispanics, and 65 and 60 percent for Blacks.

DIVORCE

In 1992, 11 percent (16.3 million) of all adults age 15 years and over who had ever been married were currently divorced (table 1); in 1970, the figures were 4 percent and 4.3 million.¹ The figures are higher for women (12 percent and 9.6 million) than for men (10 percent and 6.8 million) because women are less likely to remarry after divorce. This is a count of persons who had divorced but had not remarried by the time the survey was conducted. These statistics do not indicate the number of divorces granted in a given year, nor the number of persons who had ever divorced during their lifetime.

The ratio of divorced persons to persons in intact marriages is an index for measuring the increase in divorce (table D). Over the past two decades, the ratio has risen from 47 divorced persons per 1,000 persons in intact marriages in 1970 to 152 per 1,000 in 1992. For men, the ratio rose from 35 to 126, and for women, from 60 to 179 between 1970 and 1992. Black women have the highest ratio (391 in 1992) of any sex or race group, followed by 232 per 1,000 for Black men. The ratios for Whites are not statistically different from the ratios for persons of Hispanic origin. In 1992, the ratios for White and Hispanic men were 120 and 110, and the ratios for White and Hispanic women were 164 and 161, respectively.

Although the divorce rate, as presented by the National Center for Health Statistics, has declined slightly during the past few years, the divorce ratio, as shown here, is rising. This is because the total number of currently divorced persons has continued to increase more rapidly than the total number of currently married persons.

UNMARRIED MEN AND WOMEN

While there were fewer unmarried men (37.6 million) than unmarried women (44.3 million) in 1992—or an unmarried ratio of 85 men per 100 women—the ratio has narrowed from 79 per 100 in 1970 (tables E and 1).

The term "unmarried," as used in this report, means persons who are currently divorced, widowed, or have never been married.

The ratio of unmarried men to unmarried women varies by age group (table E and figure 2). There are more men than women at the younger ages, reflecting the fact that men have a later age at first marriage than women and suggesting, at least demographically, that the marriage prospects for younger women are better than for older women. At age 25 to 29, there were 128 unmarried men per 100 unmarried women; and at age 30 to 34, there were 121 men for every 100 women.

After age 40, the ratio of unmarried men to unmarried women is considerably smaller. This is because women have greater longevity than men and, therefore, are more likely to be widowed, and because women are less likely to remarry after either divorce or widowhood. In the age group 40-to-44, there were 83 unmarried men per 100 unmarried women, dropping to 30 per 100 by age 65 and over.

Ratio of Unmarried Men Per 100 Unmarried Women by Age: 1992

MARRIED COUPLES, SAME RACE AND INTERRACIAL

This section focuses on racial intermarriage involving race groups classified as either White, Black, or other. The vast majority (at least 95 percent) of the 53.5 million married couples in the United States in 1992, were couples where both partners were of the same race (White married to White and Black married to Black). Same-race couples comprised of White husband and White wife made up 89 percent of all married couples, and Black husbands married to Black wives were 7 percent. The small percentage of couples remaining are divided into couples that can be identified as interracial and other couples that may or may not be interracial (table F).

Interracial couples that can be identified here include Whites married to any race other than White and Blacks married to any race other than Black. These interracial couples (1.2 million) represent only 2 percent of all married couples. The number of Black/White married couples in 1992 was 246,000, or 21 percent of the interracial couples, but represented only 0.5 percent of all married couples. Since 1970, the total number of interracial couples involving either a White or a Black spouse has grown from 310,000 to 1,161,000, and their proportion of all married couples has increased from 0.6 percent in 1970 to 2.2 percent in 1992. When very small segments of the population are compared over time, the numerical change may appear to be large, while the proportional change is actually quite small. Among the States that reported race on the marriage records for those marriages that took place in 1987, 2 percent were interracial.²

The "all other couple" category includes married couples in which the husbands and wives identified themselves as American Indian, Eskimo, Aleut, Chinese, Japanese, etc., and any other races except White or Black. In 1992, there were 1.5 million such couples, or 3 percent of all married couples. The husbands and wives in these couples may or may not be of the same race.

Persons of Hispanic origin most often married someone of the same origin. Of the 4.5 married couples involving a person of Hispanic origin, 74 percent were Hispanic married to Hispanic.

CHILDREN BY PRESENCE OF PARENTS

The proportion of children under 18 years old living with two parents has declined over the past two decades. Increases in divorce, separation, and out-of-wedlock births have been responsible for this shift in the living arrangements of children. Between 1970 and 1992, the proportion of children living with two parents declined from 85 percent to 71 percent, while the proportion living with one parent more than doubled from 12 percent to 27 percent (table G and figure 3).

Black children are less likely than White children to live with two parents. In 1992, only 36 percent of Black children lived with two parents, compared with 77 percent of White children. For Hispanic children (who may be of any race), 65 percent lived with two parents.

Children in one-parent situations most often lived with their mother (88 percent in 1992), although the proportion who lived with their father has grown, from 9 percent in 1970 to 12 percent in 1992. Children of divorce make up the largest share of children living with one parent (37 percent), followed by children born to a parent who had never married (34 percent). The proportion of one-parent children who lived with a married parent whose spouse was absent (due to marital discord or for any other reason) was 24 percent, and 5 percent lived with a widowed parent (table 5).

Of the children in one-parent situations, White children were more likely to live with a divorced parent, while Black children most often lived with a parent who had never been married. Children of Hispanic origin were about as likely to be living with a never-married parent as with a married parent whose spouse was absent, or with a divorced parent.³

The living conditions of children vary by number of parents present. Children living with two parents are more likely than children in a single-parent situation to be living with a parent who has 4 or more years of college, who is employed, who has higher income, and who is a homeowner. Of the 46.6 million children under 18 living with two parents, 26 percent had a parent with 4 or more years of college, 85 percent had an employed parent, 53 percent had family income of $40,000 or more, and 72 percent lived in a home their parents owned or were buying. Conversely, of the 17.6 million children under 18 living with one parent, 8 percent had ³Hispanic children are significantly more likely to be living with a never-married parent than with a divorced parent.

GRANDCHILDREN

There were 3.3 million grandchildren (5 percent of all children under 18 years) who lived in a home maintained by their grandparent(s) in 1992 (table H). Since 1970, the proportion of all children under 18 who lived in their grandparent(s) home has increased only 1 1/2 percentage points. The count of grandchildren shown in this report excludes children whose parent(s) maintains the household, even if grandparents live there.

In 1992, 15 percent of children living with grandparents also had both parents living with them, 54 percent had only their mother present, and 27 percent had neither parent present in the grandparents' home.⁴ Since 1970, there has been an increase in the proportion of these children who have only their mother present and a decline in the proportion with no parent present. However, a procedural improvement in the data collection and processing scheme during 1982-83 that helped to identify parent-child subfamilies is responsible for much of the decline in grandchildren living solely with their grandparents.⁵

Black children were more likely to live in their grandparents' home than were White children or children of Hispanic origin, and a larger share had only their mother present. Twelve percent of all Black children lived in the home of their grandparents, compared with 4 percent for Whites and 6 percent for Hispanics. Black children living in their grandparents' home also were more likely to be living with only the grandparents (35 percent, compared with 22 percent of White grandchildren and 21 percent of Hispanic grandchildren).

LIVING ARRANGEMENTS OF ADULTS

The living arrangements of adults vary greatly by marital status and age. Married adults, regardless of age, almost always maintain their own home (97 percent). Unmarried adults are more likely to maintain their own home as age increases. (See table I.)

⁵For a detailed discussion of the procedural change, see Current Population Reports, Series P-20, No. 399, Marital Status and Living Arrangements: March 1984, p. 8.

In 1992, 97 percent of the 113 million currently married adults rented or owned their own home. Even among young married persons, the proportion maintaining their own homes was high. Of the 4.5 million married persons age 20 to 24, two-thirds owned or rented their own home, living independently of others.

The majority of young unmarried adults lived in the home of someone else; usually with their parents. Among unmarried persons age 20 to 24, 21 percent maintained their own home, 58 percent lived in their parents' home, and 21 percent lived in the home of someone else. By age 30 to 34, 53 percent maintained their own home, while 23 percent lived in their parents' home, and, similarly, 24 percent lived with someone else. After age 34, 77 percent of the unmarried adults maintained their own home—most of them lived alone—while 6 percent lived with their parents, and 16 percent lived with someone else.

LIVING ARRANGEMENTS OF THE ELDERLY

Living arrangements of the elderly population differ by age, sex, and race. The "older" elderly are more likely than the "younger" elderly to live with other relatives, females are more likely than males to live alone, and Whites and Hispanics are more likely than Blacks to live with their spouses (table J).

In 1992, there were 31 million persons age 65 and older (excluding institutional population, such as those living in nursing homes or other places providing care or custody). Between the ages of 65 and 74, the majority (63 percent) of persons were married and living with their spouse, 25 percent lived alone, and 10 percent lived with other relatives. By age 75 and over, the proportion who are widowed is much higher, which results in very different living arrangements than for the younger elderly. Persons age 75 years and over were as likely to live alone as to live with their spouse (41 percent and 41 percent, respectively), and 16 percent lived with other relatives.

The majority of elderly were women, 17.8 million versus 12.8 million men. Women on average live longer than men, and longevity is a major factor affecting the difference in living arrangements by sex. One-third of women age 65 to 74 and about half of women age 75 and over lived alone in 1992. The proportions for men, by comparison, were 13 percent and 22 percent, respectively. Elderly men were more likely than elderly women to live with their spouse. (See table J.) In 1992, elderly Blacks were less likely to live with their spouse than were elderly Whites and Hispanics (37, 56, and 51 percent, respectively). This may be a result of the relatively shorter longevity for Black men, the higher proportion of Blacks who never marry, and higher levels of marital disruption among Blacks. The proportion of elderly who lived alone was higher for Whites (31 percent) and Blacks (36 percent) than for persons of Hispanic origin (19 percent), and the proportion who lived with other relatives was higher for Blacks and Hispanics than for Whites (25, 27, and 11 percent, respectively).

UNMARRIED-COUPLE HOUSEHOLDS

An unmarried-couple household, as defined by the Census Bureau, contains only two adults with or without children under 15 years old present in the home. The adults must be of opposite sex and not related to one another. Although the unmarried-couple household figure is intended mainly to identify cohabiting couples, and presumably does in most cases, it also may include those with a roomer, boarder, or employee living in the household. The estimate, in turn, misses other cohabiting couples in households where there are more than two adults present.

In 1992, there were 3.3 million unmarried-couple households, double the number in 1980 (table K). Two-thirds of these households had no children under 15 living in the home. The number of unmarried-couple households is relatively small when compared with the total number of married couples (53.5 million in 1992); however, the ratio of unmarried to married couples is growing. In 1970, there was only 1 unmarried couple per 100 married couples. By 1992, this ratio had increased to 6 per 100.

The majority (57 percent) of partners in unmarried-couple households had never been married, 33 percent were divorced, 6 percent were married but not living with their spouse, and 4 percent were widowed (table 8). In 6 of 10 unmarried-couples, the partners were within 5 years of age of each other.

* Persons of Hispanic origin may be of any race.

No. 468, Household and Family Characteristics: March 1992. Projections for the United States of the number of households and families were published in Series P-25, No. 986, Projections of the Number of Households and Families: 1986 to 2000. Estimates of the number and characteristics of households and families that continue, discontinue, and/or are newly formed over 1-year and 2-year periods are presented in Current Population Reports, Series P23-179, When Households Continue, Discontinue, and Form. The most up-to-date information on the recent marital history of the population may be found in Current Population Reports, Series P23-180, Marriage, Divorce, and Remarriage in the 1990's. A series of graphs and interpretive text illustrating important trends of the past several decades that have influenced household and family circumstances of all persons, with special emphasis on children, is available in chartbook form in Current Population Reports, Series P23-181, Households, Families, and Children: A Thirty Year Perspective. Additional statistics for years since 1947 on subjects covered in this report have been published by the Bureau of the Census in other reports in Series P20, P23, and P25 and are listed at the end of this publication.

Appendix A. Definitions and Explanations

Coverage. The population in this report includes the civilian noninstitutional population of the United States plus approximately 841,000 members of the Armed Forces in the United States living off post or with their families on post in 1992 but excludes all other members of the Armed Forces. However, the data in table B on median age at first marriage for men refer to the total male population which includes, in addition to the above, the male members of the Armed Forces overseas and in military barracks and similar quarters in the United States.

Symbols. A dash (-) represents zero or rounds to zero. The symbol "B" means that the base for the derived figure is less than 75,000. An "X" means not applicable, and "NA" means not available.

Rounding of estimates. Individual figures are rounded to the nearest thousand without being adjusted to group totals, which are independently rounded; percentages are based on the unrounded numbers.

Metropolitan-nonmetropolitan residence. The population residing in metropolitan areas (MA's) constitutes the metropolitan population. MA's are defined by the Office of Management and Budget for use in the presentation of statistics by agencies of the Federal Government. An MA is a geographic area consisting of a large population nucleus, together with adjacent communities which have a high degree of economic and social integration with that nucleus. The definitions specify a boundary around each large city to include most or all of its suburbs. Entire counties form the MA building blocks, except in New England where cities and towns are used.

An area qualifies for recognition as an MA if (1) it includes a city of at least 50,000 population, or (2) it includes a Census Bureau-defined urbanized area of at least 50,000 with a total metropolitan population of at least 100,000 (75,000 in New England). In addition to the county containing the main city or urbanized area, an MA may include other counties having strong commuting ties to the central county. If specified conditions are met, certain large MA's are designated as consolidated metropolitan statistical areas (CMSA's) and divided into component primary metropolitan statistical areas (PMSA's).

In July 1985, the Current Population Survey (CPS) began carrying the metropolitan statistical area definitions announced by the Office of Management and Budget on June 30, 1984. Figures published from the CPS in the early 1980's and throughout most of the 1970's referred to metropolitan areas as defined on the basis of the 1970 census. Since there are important differences in the population classified as metropolitan using the 1970 and 1984 definitions, comparisons should be avoided.

The new CPS metropolitan estimates have consistently been higher than independent estimates of the metropolitan population prepared by the Census Bureau; the new CPS nonmetropolitan estimates have been lower than the independent estimates. The apparent overestimation of metropolitan and underestimation of nonmetropolitan population in the CPS relative to the Census Bureau's independent estimates should be taken into account when using the data.

Age. The age classification is based on the age of the person at the person's last birthday. The adult universe (i.e., population of marriageable age) now comprises persons 15 years old and over. Prior to 1980 the adult universe was 14 years old and over.

Race. The population is divided into three groups on the basis of race: White, Black, and other races. The last category includes Indians, Japanese, Chinese, and any other race except White and Black.

Persons of Hispanic origin. Persons of Hispanic origin in this report were determined on the basis of a question that asked for self-identification of the person's origin or descent. Respondents were asked to select their origin (or the origin of some other household member) from a "flash card" listing ethnic origins. Persons of Hispanic origin, in particular, were those who indicated that their origin was Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American, or some other Hispanic origin. Persons of Hispanic origin may be of any race.

Marital status. The marital status classification identifies four major categories: never married, married, widowed, and divorced. These terms refer to the marital status at the time of the enumeration.

The category "married" is further divided into "married, spouse present," "separated," and "other married, spouse absent." A person was classified as "married, spouse present" if the husband or wife was reported as a member of the household, even though he or she may have been temporarily absent on business or on vacation, visiting, in a hospital, etc., at the time of the enumeration. Persons reported as separated included those with legal separations, those living apart with intentions of obtaining a divorce, and other persons permanently or temporarily separated because of marital discord. The group "other married, spouse absent" includes married persons living apart because either the husband or wife was employed and living at a considerable distance from home, was serving away from home in the Armed Forces, had moved to another area, or had a different place of residence for any other reason except separation as defined above.

Age at first marriage. The median age at first marriage, as shown in this report, is an approximation derived indirectly from tabulations of marital status and age. In computing this median, several steps are involved. First, the expected proportion of young people who will ever marry during their lifetime is computed. Second, one-half of this expected proportion is calculated. And third, the current age of young people who are at this halfway mark is computed. From the assumptions made and the procedures used, it follows that the date of the survey is also the date when this halfway mark is reached. Half of the young people of the given age who will ever get married had done so prior to the survey date and half are expected to marry in years to come.

The quartile ages at first marriage divide people who will ever marry into four equal groups. The first quartile age is the age at which 25 percent of persons have married, the second quartile age (or median age) is the age at which 50 percent of persons have married, and the third quartile age is the age at which 75 percent of persons have married. The quartile ages are computed from the same distributions and involve the same assumptions as to the median ages.

Household. A household consists of all the persons who occupy a housing unit. A house, an apartment or other group of rooms, or a single room, is regarded as a housing unit when it is occupied or intended for occupancy as separate living quarters; that is, when the occupants do not live and eat with any other persons in the structure and there is direct access from the outside or through a common hall.

A household includes the related family members and all the unrelated persons, if any, such as lodgers, foster children, wards, or employees who share the housing unit. A person living alone in a housing unit, or a group of unrelated persons sharing a housing unit as partners, is also counted as a household. The count of households excludes group quarters.

Group quarters. As of 1983, group quarters were defined in the Current Population Survey as noninstitutional living arrangements for groups not living in conventional housing units or groups living in housing units containing ten or more unrelated persons or nine or more persons unrelated to the person in charge. (Prior to 1983, group quarters included housing units containing five or more persons unrelated to the person in charge.) Examples of persons in group quarters include a person residing in a rooming house, in staff quarters at a hospital, or in a halfway house. Beginning in 1972, inmates of institutions have not been included in the Current Population Survey.

Householder. The householder refers to the person (or one of the persons) in whose name the housing unit is owned or rented (maintained) or, if there is no such person, any adult member, excluding roomers, boarders, or paid employees. If the house is owned or rented jointly by a married couple, the householder may be either the husband or the wife. The person designated as the householder is the "reference person" to whom the relationship of all other household members, if any, is recorded.

Prior to 1980, the husband was always considered the householder in married-couple households. The number of householders is equal to the number of households. Also, the number of family householders is equal to the number of families.

Head versus householder. Beginning with the 1980 CPS, the Bureau of the Census discontinued the use of the terms "head of household" and "head of family." Instead, the terms "householder" and "family householder" are used. Recent social changes have resulted in greater sharing of household responsibilities among the adult members and, therefore, have made the term "head" increasingly inappropriate in the analysis of household and family data. Specifically, the Census Bureau has discontinued its longtime practice of always classifying the husband as the reference person (head) when he and his wife are living together.

In this report, the term "householder" is used in the presentation of data that had previously been presented with the designation "head." The householder is the first adult household member listed on the questionnaire. The instructions call for listing first the person (or one of the persons) in whose name the home is owned or rented. If a home is owned jointly by a married couple, either the husband or the wife may be listed first, thereby becoming the reference person, or householder, to whom the relationship of other household members is to be recorded.

Reference person. The reference person is the person to whom the relationship of other persons in the household is recorded. The household reference person is the person listed as the householder (see definition of "Householder"). The subfamily reference person is either the single parent or the husband/wife in a married-couple situation.

Family. A family is a group of two persons or more (one of whom is the householder) related by birth, marriage, or adoption and residing together; all such persons (including related subfamily members) are considered as members of one family. Beginning with the 1980 CPS, unrelated subfamilies (referred to in the past as secondary families) are no longer included in the count of families, nor are the members of unrelated subfamilies included in the count of family members.

Family household. A family household is a household maintained by a family (as defined above), and any unrelated persons (unrelated subfamily members and/or secondary individuals) who may be residing there are included. The number of family households is equal to the number of families. The count of family household members differs from the count of family members, however, in that the family household members include all persons living in the household, whereas family members include only the householder and his/her relatives. See the definition of family.

Related subfamily. A related subfamily is a married couple with or without children, or one parent with one or more own never-married children under 18 years old, living in a household and related to, but not including, the person or couple who maintains the household. One example of a related subfamily is a young married couple sharing the home of the husband's or wife's parents. The number of related subfamilies is not included in the count of families.

Unrelated subfamily. An unrelated subfamily (formerly called a secondary family) is a married couple with or without children, or a single parent with one or more own never-married children under 18 years old living in a household. Unrelated subfamily members are not related to the householder. An unrelated subfamily may include persons such as guests, partners, roommates, or resident employees and their spouses and/or children. The number of unrelated subfamily members is included in the total number of household members, but is not included in the count of family members.

Beginning in 1989, any person(s) who is not related to the householder and who is not the husband, wife, parent, or child in an unrelated subfamily is counted as an unrelated individual.

Family group. A family group is any two or more persons (not necessarily including a householder) residing together, and related by birth, marriage, or adoption. A household may be composed of one such group, more than one group, or none at all. The count of family groups includes family households, related subfamilies, and unrelated subfamilies.

Married couple. A married couple, as defined for census purposes, is a husband and wife enumerated as members of the same household. The married couple may or may not have children living with them. The expression "husband-wife" or "married-couple" before the term "household," "family," or "subfamily" indicates that the household, family, or subfamily is maintained by a husband and wife. The number of married couples equals the count of married-couple families plus related and unrelated married-couple subfamilies.

Unmarried couple. An unmarried couple is composed of two unrelated adults of the opposite sex (one of whom is the householder) who share a housing unit with or without the presence of children under 15 years old.

Unrelated individuals. Unrelated individuals are persons of any age who are not members of families or subfamilies.

Nonfamily householder. A nonfamily householder is a person maintaining a household while living alone or exclusively with persons to whom they are not related.

Secondary individuals. Secondary individuals are persons of any age who reside in a household, but are not related to the householder (except unrelated subfamily members). Persons who reside in group quarters are also secondary individuals. Examples of a secondary individual include (1) a guest, partner, roommate, or resident employee; (2) a foster child; or (3) a person residing in a rooming house, a halfway house, staff quarters at a hospital, or other type of group quarters.

Own children and related children. "Own" children in a family are sons and daughters, including stepchildren and adopted children, of the householder. Similarly, "own" children in a subfamily are sons and daughters of the married couple or parent in the subfamily. (All children shown as members of related subfamilies are own children of the person(s) maintaining the subfamily.) "Related" children in a family include own children and all other children in the household who are related to the householder by birth, marriage, or adoption. For each type of family unit identified in the CPS, the count of own children under 18 years old is limited to never-married children; however, "own children under 25" and "own children of any age," as the terms are used here, include all children regardless of marital status. The totals include never-married children living away from home in college dormitories.

The count of related children in families was formerly restricted to never-married children. However, beginning with data for 1968, the Bureau of the Census includes ever-married children under the category of related children. This change added approximately 20,000 children to the category of related children in March 1968.

Tenure. A housing unit (including a cooperative or condominium unit) is "owned" if the owner or co-owner lives in the unit, even if it is mortgaged or not fully paid for. All other occupied units are classified as "rented," including units rented for cash rent and those occupied without payment of cash rent.

Years of school completed. Education of parent, as shown in this report, refers to the years of school completed by the parent (the reference person when both parents are present). Data on years of school completed were derived from the combination of answers to two questions, (1) "What is the highest grade of school that the person has attended?" and (2) "Did the person finish this grade?"

Labor force and employment status. The definitions of labor force and employment status in this report are related to the civilian population 15 years old and over. Persons shown here are classified as in the labor force if they were employed as civilians during the survey week.

Employed. Employed persons comprise (1) all civilians who, during the specified week, did any work at all as paid employees or in their own business or profession, or on their own farm, or who worked 15 hours or more as unpaid workers on a farm or in a business operated by a member of the family, and (2) all those who were not working but who had jobs or businesses from which they were temporarily absent because of illness, bad weather, vacation, or labor management dispute, or because they were taking time off for personal reasons, whether or not they were paid by their employers for time off, and whether or not they were seeking other jobs. Excluded from the employed group are persons whose only activity consisted of work around the house (own home housework, painting or repairing own home, etc.) or volunteer work for religious, charitable, and similar organizations.

Unemployed. Unemployed persons are those civilians who, during the survey week, had no employment but were available for work and (1) had engaged in any specific job-seeking activity within the past 4 weeks, such as registering at a public or private employment office, meeting with prospective employers, checking with friends or relatives, placing or answering advertisements, writing letters of application, or being on a union or professional register; (2) were waiting to be called back to a job from which they had been laid off; or (3) were waiting to report to a new wage or salary job within 30 days.

Not in the labor force. All civilians who are not classified as employed or unemployed are defined as "not in the labor force." This group who are neither employed nor seeking work includes persons engaged only in own home housework, attending school, or unable to work because of long-term physical or mental illness; persons who are retired or too old to work, seasonal workers for whom the survey week fell in an off season, and the voluntary idle. Persons doing only unpaid family work (less than 15 hours) are also classified as not in the labor force.

Income. Data on income cover money income only, prior to deduction for taxes, received from such sources as wages or salaries, net income from self-employment, Social Security, dividends, interest, public assistance and welfare, unemployment compensation, government pensions, and veterans payments. Certain money receipts such as capital gains are not included.

In table 6, number of children by family income refers to the income of the family (including related subfamily members, if any) or of the unrelated subfamily of which the child is a member. For a more detailed explanation of income, see Bureau of the Census, Current Population Reports, Series P60.

Poverty. The poverty definition used here is that adopted for official Government use by the Office of Management and Budget and consists of a set of money income thresholds that vary by family size and composition. Families or individuals with income below a particular threshold are classified as below the poverty level. The poverty thresholds are updated every year to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index. These thresholds are based on money income only and do not include the value of noncash benefits such as employer-provided health insurance, food stamps, or Medicaid. For a more detailed explanation, see Bureau of the Census, Current Population Reports, Series P60.

Undocumented immigrants. The 1980 census counted about 2 million undocumented immigrants according to Census Bureau estimates. Beginning in January 1986, the independent population controls included an allowance for growth in the undocumented population for every year since 1980. This methodological change was partially offset by another change that increased the allowance for emigration of legal residents. Data shown for Current Population Surveys with controls based on pre-1986 methods have not been revised to take into account these methodological changes. Consequently, direct comparisons of CPS figures for months before January 1986 with later months will not be consistent. Series P-25, No. 985 reviews the postcensal population estimates methodology currently in use.

Appendix B.

SOURCE OF DATA

Most estimates in this report come from data obtained in March of the years 1960 through 1992 in the Current Population Survey (CPS). The Bureau of the Census conducts the survey every month, although this report uses only March data for its estimates. Also, some estimates come from 1970 and 1980 decennial census data. The March survey uses two sets of questions, the basic CPS and the supplements.

Basic CPS. The basic CPS collects primarily labor force data about the civilian noninstitutional population. Interviewers ask questions concerning labor force participation about each member 15 years old and over in every sample household.

The present CPS sample was selected from the 1980 decennial census files with coverage in all 50 States and the District of Columbia. The sample is continually updated to account for new residential construction. It is located in 729 areas comprising 1,973 counties, independent cities, and minor civil divisions. About 60,000 occupied housing units are eligible for interview every month. Interviewers are unable to obtain interviews at about 2,600 of these units because the occupants are not found at home after repeated calls or are unavailable for some other reason.

Since the introduction of the CPS, the Bureau of the Census has redesigned the CPS sample several times to improve the quality and reliability of the data and to satisfy changing data needs. The most recent changes were completely implemented in July 1985.

The following table summarizes changes in the CPS designs for the years for which data appear in this report.

¹Excludes about 2,500 Hispanic households added from the previous November sample. (See "March Supplement.")

²The CPS was redesigned following the 1980 Census of Population and Housing. During phase-in of the new design, housing units from the new and old designs were in the sample.

March Supplement. In addition to the basic CPS questions, interviewers asked supplementary questions in March about marital status and living arrangements.

To obtain more reliable data for the Hispanic origin population, the March CPS sample was increased by about 2,500 eligible housing units. These housing units were interviewed the previous November and contained at least one sample person of Hispanic origin. In addition, the sample included persons in the Armed Forces living off post or with their families on post.

Estimation Procedure. This survey's estimation procedure inflates weighted sample results to independent estimates of the civilian noninstitutional population of the United States by age, sex, race and Hispanic/non-Hispanic categories. The independent estimates were based on statistics from decennial censuses of population; statistics on births, deaths, immigration, and emigration; and statistics on the size of the Armed Forces.

The independent population estimates used for 1981 to present were based on updates to controls established by the 1980 decennial census. Before 1981, independent population estimates from the most recent decennial census were used. For more details on the change in independent estimates, see the section entitled "Introduction of 1980 Census Population Controls" in an earlier report (Series P-60, No. 139). The estimation procedure for the March supplement included a further adjustment so husband and wife of a household received the same weight.

The estimates in this report for 1985 and later also employ a revised survey weighting procedure for persons of Hispanic origin. In previous years, weighted sample results were inflated to independent estimates of the noninstitutional population by age, sex, and race. There was no specific control of the survey estimates for the Hispanic population. Since then, the Bureau of the Census developed independent population controls for the Hispanic population by sex and detailed age groups. Revised weighting procedures incorporate these new controls. The independent population estimates include some, but not all, undocumented immigrants.

ACCURACY OF ESTIMATES

Since the CPS estimates come from a sample, they may differ from figures from a complete census using the same questionnaires, instructions, and enumerators. A sample survey estimate has two possible types of error: sampling and nonsampling. The accuracy of an estimate depends on both types of error, but the full extent of the nonsampling error is unknown. Consequently, one should be particularly careful when interpreting results based on a relatively small number of cases or on small differences between estimates. The standard errors for CPS estimates primarily indicate the magnitude of sampling error. They also partially measure the effect of some nonsampling errors in responses and enumeration, but do not measure systematic biases in the data. (Bias is the average, over all possible samples, of the differences between the sample estimates and the desired value.)

Nonsampling Variability. There are several sources of nonsampling error including the following:

- Inability to get information about all sample cases.
- Definitional difficulties.
- Differences in interpretation of questions.

- Respondents' inability or unwillingness to provide correct information.
- Respondents' inability to recall information.
- Errors made in data collection, such as recording and coding data.
- Errors made in processing the data.
- Errors made in estimating values for missing data.
- Failure to represent all units with the sample (undercoverage).

CPS undercoverage results from missed housing units and missed persons within sample households. Compared to the level of the 1980 decennial census, overall CPS undercoverage is about 7 percent. CPS undercoverage varies with age, sex, and race. Generally, undercoverage is larger for males than for females and larger for Blacks and other races combined than for Whites. As described previously, ratio estimation to independent age-sex-race-Hispanic population controls partially corrects for the bias due to undercoverage. However, biases exist in the estimates to the extent that missed persons in missed households or missed persons in interviewed households have different characteristics from those of interviewed persons in the same age-sex-race-Hispanic group. Furthermore, the independent population controls have not been adjusted for undercoverage in the 1980 census.

For additional information on nonsampling error including the possible impact on CPS data when known, refer to Statistical Policy Working Paper 3, An Error Profile: Employment as Measured by the Current Population Survey, Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce, 1978; and Technical Paper 40, The Current Population Survey: Design and Methodology, Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

Comparability of Data. Data obtained from the CPS and other sources are not entirely comparable. This results from differences in interviewer training and experience and in differing survey processes. This is an example of nonsampling variability not reflected in the standard errors. Use caution when comparing results from different sources.

Caution should also be used when comparing estimates in this report, which reflect 1980 census-based population controls, with estimates for 1980 and earlier years, which reflect 1970 census-based population controls. This change in population controls had relatively little impact on summary measures such as means, medians, and percent distributions. It did have a significant impact on levels. For example, use of 1980-based population controls results in about a 2-percent increase in the civilian noninstitutional population and in the number of families and households. Thus, estimates of levels for data collected in 1981 and later years will differ from those for earlier years by more than what could be attributed to actual changes in the population. These differences could be disproportionately greater for certain subpopulation groups than for the total population.

Since no independent population control totals for persons of Hispanic origin were used before 1985, compare Hispanic estimates over time cautiously.

Note When Using Small Estimates. Summary measures (such as medians and percentage distributions) are shown only when the base is 75,000 or greater. Because of the large standard errors involved, summary measures would probably not reveal useful information when computed on a smaller base. However, estimated numbers are shown even though the relative standard errors of these numbers are larger than those for corresponding percentages. These smaller estimates permit combinations of the categories to suit data users' needs. These estimates may not be reliable for the interpretation of small differences. For instance, even a small amount of nonsampling error can cause a borderline difference to appear significant or not, thus distorting a seemingly valid hypothesis test.

Sampling Variability. Sampling variability is variation that occurred by chance because a sample was surveyed rather than the entire population. Standard errors, as calculated by methods described next, are primarily measures of sampling variability, although they may include some nonsampling error.

Standard Errors and Their Use. A number of approximations are required to derive, at a moderate cost, standard errors applicable to all the estimates in this report. Instead of providing an individual standard error for each estimate, generalized sets of standard errors are provided for various types of characteristics. Thus, the tables show levels of magnitude of standard errors rather than the precise standard errors.

Tables B-1 through B-3 provide standard errors of estimated numbers. Tables B-4 and B-5 provide standard errors of estimated percentages. Table B-6 has standard error parameters for persons, families, households, householders, and unrelated individuals. Table B-6 also provides factors to apply to the standard errors in tables B-1 through B-5.

The sample estimate and its standard error enable one to construct a confidence interval. A confidence interval is a range that would include the average result of all possible samples with a known probability. For example, if all possible samples were surveyed under essentially the same general conditions and using the same sample design, and if an estimate and its standard error were calculated from each sample, then approximately 90 percent of the intervals from 1.645 standard errors below the estimate to 1.645 standard errors above the estimate would include the average result of all possible samples.

A particular confidence interval may or may not contain the average estimate derived from all possible samples. However, one can say with specified confidence that the interval includes the average estimate calculated from all possible samples.

Some statements in the report may contain estimates followed by a number in parentheses. This number can be added to and subtracted from the estimate to calculate upper and lower bounds of the 90-percent confidence interval. For example, if a statement contains the phrase "grew by 1.7 percent (± 1.0)," the 90-percent confidence interval for the estimate, 1.7 percent, is 0.7 percent to 2.7 percent.

Standard errors may be used to perform hypothesis testing. This is a procedure for distinguishing between population parameters using sample estimates. The most common type of hypothesis appearing in this report is that the population parameters are different. An example of this would be comparing the number of unmarried Blacks to the number of unmarried Whites.

Tests may be performed at various levels of significance. The significance level of a test is the probability of concluding that the characteristics are different when, in fact, they are the same. All statements of comparison in the text have passed a hypothesis test at the 0.10 level of significance or better. This means that the absolute value of the estimated difference between characteristics is greater than or equal to 1.645 times the standard error of the difference.

Standard Errors of Estimated Numbers. There are two ways to compute the approximate standard error, s_x , of an estimated number shown in this report. The first uses the formula where f is a factor from table B-6, and s is the standard error of the estimate obtained by interpolation from tables B-1 through B-3. The second method uses formula (2), from which the standard errors in tables B-1 through B-3 were calculated. This formula will provide more accurate results than formula (1).

$$s_x \sqrt{ax^2 + bx} \quad (2)$$

Here x is the size of the estimate and a and b are the parameters in table B-6 associated with the particular type of characteristic. When calculating standard errors for numbers from cross-tabulations involving different characteristics, use the factor or set of parameters for the characteristic that will give the largest standard error.

Illustration. Suppose that 46,503,000 children under 18 years old lived with two parents. Use the appropriate parameters from table B-6 and formula (2) to get:

Number, x	46,503,000
a parameter	-0.000026
b parameter	4,785
Standard error	408,000
90% confidence interval	45,832,000 to 47,174,000

The standard error is calculated as

$$s = \sqrt{-0.000026 \times 46,503,000^2 + 4,785 \times 46,503,000} = 408,000$$

15,000	0.2	0.3	0.5	0.6	0.9	1.0	1.1
20,000	0.2	0.3	0.4	0.6	0.8	0.9	0.9

The 90-percent confidence interval is calculated as 46,503,000 $\pm$ 1.645 $\times$ 408,000.

A conclusion that the average estimate derived from all possible samples lies within a range computed in this way would be correct for roughly 90 percent of all possible samples.

The alternate calculation of the standard error, using formula (1) with $f=1.0$ from table B-6 and $s=404,000$ by interpolation from table B-1 is

$$s_x = 1.0 \times 404,000 = 404,000$$

Standard Errors of Estimated Percentages. The reliability of an estimated percentage, computed using sample data for both numerator and denominator, depends on the size of the percentage and its base. Estimated percentages are relatively more reliable than the corresponding estimates of the numerators of the percentages, particularly if the percentages are 50 percent or more. When the numerator and denominator of the percentage are in different categories, use the factor or parameter from table B-6 indicated by the numerator.

The approximate standard error, $s_{x,p}$, of an estimated percentage can be obtained by use of the formula

In this formula, f is the appropriate factor from table B-6, and s is the standard error of the estimate obtained by interpolation from table B-4 or B-5.

Alternatively, formula (4) will provide more accurate results:

Here x is the total number of persons, families, households, or unrelated individuals in the base of the percentage, p is the percentage ($0 \leq p \leq 100$), and b is the parameter in table B-6 associated with the characteristic in the numerator of the percentage.

Illustration. Suppose that of the 2,856,000 unmarried-couple households, 1,189,000 or 41.6 percent, are 25 to 34 years old. Use the appropriate parameter from table B-6 and formula (4) to get:

Percentage, p	41.6
Base, x	2,856,000
b parameter	1,661
Standard error	1.2
90% confidence interval	39.6 to 43.6

The standard error is calculated as

$$S_{x,p} = \sqrt{\frac{1,661}{2,856,000} \times 41.6 \times (100 - 41.6)} = 1.2$$

The 90-percent confidence interval for the percentage of unmarried-couple households who are 25 to 34 years old is calculated as $41.6 \pm 1.645 \times 1.2$.

The alternate calculation of the standard error, using formula (3), with $f=0.6$ from table B-6 and $s=2.0$ by interpolation from table B-4 is

$$s_{x,p} = 0.6 \times 2.0 = 1.2$$

Standard Error of a Difference. The standard error of the difference between two sample estimates is approximately equal to where s_x and s_y are the standard errors of the estimates, x and y . The estimates can be numbers, percentages, ratios, etc. This will represent the actual standard error quite accurately for the difference between estimates of the same characteristic in two different areas, or for the difference between separate and uncorrelated characteristics in the same area. However, if there is a high positive (negative) correlation between the two characteristics, the formula will overestimate (underestimate) the true standard error.

$$s_{x-y} = \sqrt{s_x^2 + s_y^2} \quad (5)$$

Illustration. Suppose there were 3,155,000 children living with grandparents in 1990 and in 1980 there were 2,306,000. Use the appropriate parameters from table B-6 (the parameters for 1980 are listed below) and formulas (2) and (5) to get:

	x	y	difference
Number	3,155,000	2,306,000	849,000

90% conf. int.	2,954,300 to 3,355,700	2,136,600 to 2,475,400	586,000 to 1,112,000

The standard error of the difference is calculated as

$$s_{x-y} = \sqrt{122,000^2 + 103,000^2} = 160,000$$

The 90-percent confidence interval around the difference is calculated as $849,000 \pm 1.645 \times 160,000$. Since this interval doesn't contain zero, we can conclude, at the 90-percent significance level, that the number of children living with grandparents in 1990 is greater than in 1980.

Standard Error of a Ratio. Certain estimates may be calculated as the ratio of two numbers. The standard error of a ratio, x/y , maybe computed using

The standard error of the numerator, s_x , and that of the denominator, s_y , may be calculated using formulas described earlier. In formula (6), r represents the correlation between the numerator and the denominator of the estimate.

For one type of ratio, the denominator is a count of families or households and the numerator is a count of persons in those families or households with a certain characteristic. If there is at least one person with the characteristic in every family or household, use 0.7 as an estimate of r . An example of this type is the mean number of children per family with children.

For all other types of ratios, r is assumed to be zero. If r is actually positive (negative), then this procedure will provide an overestimate (underestimate) of the standard error of the ratio. Examples of this type are the mean number of children per family and the poverty rate.

NOTE: For estimates expressed as the ratio of x per 100 y or x per 1,000 y , multiply formula (6) by 100 or 1,000, respectively, to obtain the standard error.

Illustration. Suppose the ratio of men age 65 to 74, living alone, x , to women age 65 to 74, living alone, y , is 31.5 per 100. Use the appropriate parameters from table B-6. (The parameters below are from an earlier report in this series.) The standard error of this ratio is calculated as follows:

	x	y	ratio
Estimate	1,042,000	3,309,000	31.5
a parameter	-0.000020	-0.000020	-
b parameter	4,185	4,185	-
Standard error	66,000	117,000	2.3
90% conf. int.	933,400 to 1,150,600	3,116,500 to 3,501,500	27.7 to 35.3

Using formula (6) with $r=0$, the estimate of the standard error is

The 90-percent confidence interval is calculated as $31.5 \pm 1.645 \times 2.3$.
